

QUALITY POLICY

It is the policy of ALN Circuits Limited to supply printed circuit boards that will meet customer requirements and support the strategic direction of the company. The Quality objectives have been set within the Quality Management System to ensure that operations run smoothly, to satisfy the requirements and the continual improvement of the Quality Management System. The management considers that the organisations success depends upon an effective Quality Management System and an employee involvement team approach. To this end our continuous improvement strategies plan is to constantly review all aspects of quality and service from factory floor to management administration. Changes are made where necessary and customer opinions are taken into account. The organisations management accepts the responsibility of ensuring that the Quality Policy and system are understood by all personnel and that resources are made available for their implementation and maintenance. ALN Circuits commitment to quality is sincere and will constantly strive to achieve customer satisfaction.
